

Hi,

I am pleased to tell you that my research, the U.S. Founding Fathers and China, has getting along pretty well. My publications and speeches have been used as teaching materials in American classroom. Nothing can be more served as an indicator than that to show that my academic research has produced very positive influence in American society. I believe that Hegel was right when he pointed out, "To explain history means to reveal the passions of men, their genius, their active powers." To reveal and retrieve the founding fathers' great wisdom and intelligence and use them as the guiding principles for our own time has been the goal of my research.

In the following you will find the quote I copied from Honolulu Advertiser, the main source of news in the State of Hawaii.

"Dr. Wang's research and publications are recommended for Hawaii's history classrooms and for historians and history buffs in general. His insights on Chinese influences on the Founding Fathers of the United States should spark curiosity and discussion. We look forward to having Dr. Wang to speak in Hawaii."

Also, don't forget my paper, that reveals President Obama's determination to follow the founding father's genius to make the country rise above current economic quagmire worldwide.
